POSITION: DEPUTY HEAD OF COLLEGE,
AUSTRALASIAN COLLEGE OF NATURAL THERAPIES

- Australia's leading provider of natural therapies education
- Well-resourced campuses
- Member of Think: Education Group

DETAILS: Australasian College of Natural Therapies (ACNT) currently delivers vocational education programs from its well appointed Sydney and Brisbane campuses. ACNT is also set to roll out 3 new higher education programs in 2010. ACNT is a member of Think: Education Group, a wholly owned subsidiary of SEEK Ltd. The College trains over 2000 students a year from all over the world in natural therapies, massage therapy, sports and fitness, and natural beauty therapy. Since its founding in 1982, ACNT has grown to meet the growing public demand for health and wellness focused education.

To continue the College's growth ACNT now seeks an exceptional Deputy to work with the Head. In this role you will lead the review and development of curriculum and manage academic processes. You will manage and lead both academic and administrative staff in implementing high quality academic programs to achieve exceptional levels of student satisfaction. You will develop new academic programs that meet industry requirements and comply with all regulatory requirements.

To succeed you will maintain and enhance relationships with industry and professional groups. Actively participating in marketing and recruitment activities is also crucial. Tertiary qualifications, preferably at post graduate level, and previous teaching experience are essential. You will understand the theoretical underpinnings of academic courses and have experience in curriculum development. A working knowledge of regulatory requirements in vocational and higher education is crucial. Exemplary communication skills and excellent knowledge of your discipline along with the ability to develop rapport with students are essential. Experience in teamwork and managing staff in a collaborative and supportive environment is also essential. Industry experience is desirable.
